Telesis Citations

In the past the custom of dedicating the yearbook to a single individual has caused the Telesis staff to feel the pangs of conscience: a sense of guilt created by our many sins of omission. Too often have we felt that other worthy souls had been ignored because of the limitations of this method of dedication.

This year the staff feels that at least four persons merit the distinction usually reserved for one individual, and we feel that postponing this recognition for additional years would be both unwise and unfair. With this issue of Telesis a new system of dedication has begun, the Telesis Citations. We will cite as many individuals as we feel appropriate and hope that this method of recognizing achievement will possess increased value and flexibility.

Robert M. Simms

In many ways we on the staff of Telesis feel that Coach Simms has earned this recognition many times over. At the close of the 1961-62 school year, Coach Simms will have devoted fifteen years of service to CA.

No one on the faculty has worked harder or more conscientiously than Captain Simms. In the fall, a week before school begins, we find him on the football field whipping the varsity football team into shape. By the time school has begun, Captain Simms has worked out the details of a perfectly organized athletic schedule. In the winter he coaches basketball, in the spring he coaches track and throughout the year he teaches science and handles the laborious athletic scheduling. For the past twelve years he has run an excellent summer camp.

But even more amazing than these many activities is the energy he has left after he has done his teaching, coaching and administrational tasks. This energy is often devoted to outings, activities and camping trips with the students. No wonder he is one of the best liked and most respected men on campus.

So to Robert Simms for all these contributions and many others that we haven't had space to mention all we can say is, "Thanks Coach!"

Frances G. Brower

Each of us at CA knows Miss Brower and can tell a visitor where to find her busily making things hum in the office. But how many of us are aware that the coming term willl mark Miss Brower's twenty-fifth year of continuous employment with the academy?

Miss Brower began work in 1938 as a secretary when the school was known as the Colorado Military Academy. Later she assisted the teachers of grades 1-8 and still later handled the teaching of upper school mathematics. When the school moved to its present location, Miss Brower discontinued her teaching to devote her full attention to secretarial duties.

Throughout the years she has accumulated an incredibly detailed knowledge of many varying aspects of the school's function. She has earned the respect and affection of every member of the student and faculty bodies. She has gained the reputation of knowing where to find anything needed by anyone in the school. So valuable has her efficiency and accuracy become that even Mr. Froelicher has said, "Without Miss Brower we'd all be confused."

F. Charles Froelicher

How can we summarize the reasons for Mr. Froelicher's citation in so little space? There are so many reasons, so many ways he has aided the academy that to enumerate all of them would require far more space than we have available.

Perhaps the best way to begin is by showing through a few simple statistics the growth that has occurred in enrollment since Mr. Froelicher has been headmaster. In 1955 when he arrived, the school's total enrollment was 70 students. In 1962 the enrollment is 280 students. An enrollment figure that has quadrupled in only seven years!

Not only has growth occurred in the numbers of the student body but growth has also occurred in the quality of the student body. A desire for knowledge and a respect for learning has become native to the campus and seems to increase with the completion of each term.

The growth of the academy's physical plant under Mr. Froelicher has been equally impressive. In 1958 the gymnasium obtained from Buckley Field was completely renovated. In 1960 a modern lower school building, a large dormitory, and four attractive faculty houses were added to the campus. This summer a new addition to the dormitory will be built to house the family of Mr. Esbenshade, the new dormitory senior master.

But Mr. Froelicher has provided still more for the academy. These things are less tangible but no less real. Mr. Froelicher has provided a feeling of respect for the right of a person to be an individual. He has provided a location where boys with unrealized ability get another opportunity to fulfill their promise. He has provided a sense of values and proportion that recognizes the need for both physical and mental development in young men. And finally, he has provided faith. A faith in young students, a faith in what CA stands for and a faith in the future of Colorado Academy.

Mrs. Wilbur Newton

Somewhere in the history of every institution is a person whose absence would have meant nonexistence for the organization. Mrs. Wilbur Newton has been that person for Colorado Academy.

Ignoring immense odds of a decade ago, Mrs. Newton, with the aid of Mr. Thomas L. Howard, supplied the faith and support in every form and in such quantity that the Academy could not help but turn corners correctly.

To Mrs. Newton, friend and trustee of Colorado Academy over the past twelve years, we gratefully and respectfully dedicate this yearbook.

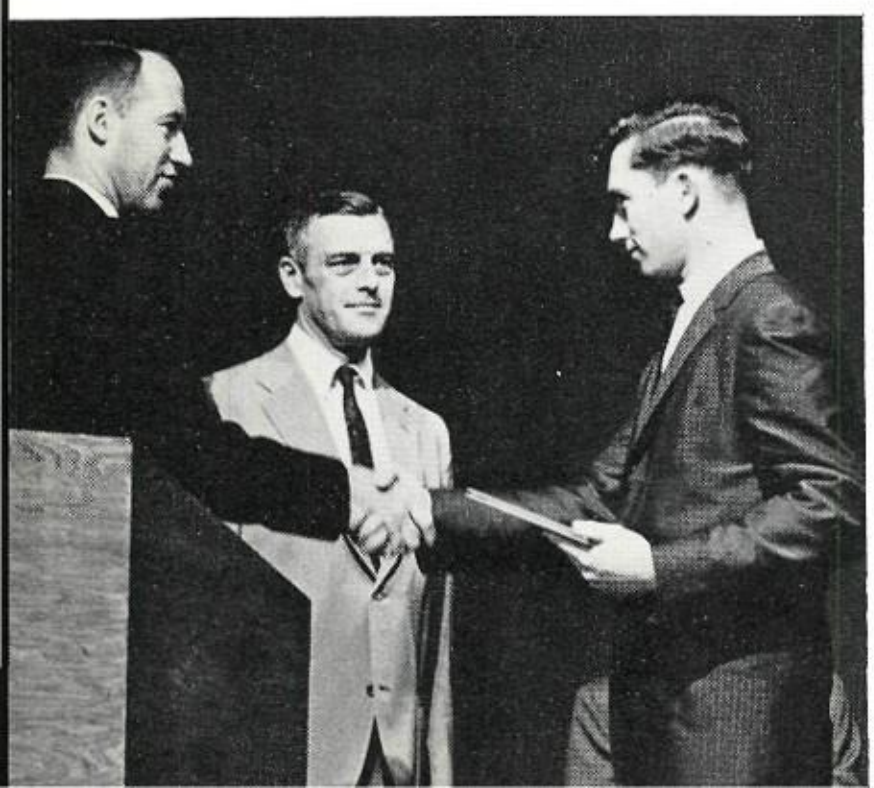
Commencement 1962

As always, commencement was both a happy and a sad occasion. Happy, because we saw twenty students ready to take the next step in a life already distinguished by accomplishment; sad, because we knew that twenty friends would not return to the campus in the coming year.

In his address, Dr. Ben Cherrington, Director of the Institute of International Education, reminded the graduates and their friends of the increasing sense of obligation and friendship existing between peoples of the world.

Mr. Froelicher made the awards to the seniors and Mr. Hildt, president of the board of trustees, presented the diplomas to the class.

Entertainment was provided by the Glee Club and the CA Combo.



Alumni Luncheon

On June 8, following commencement exercises, the old alumni of CA met with the new alumni, composed of the graduating members of the class of 1962, at a luncheon to discuss future meetings and to elect officers.

Gordon Stonington was elected president of the alumni association for 1962-63. Newly elected class secretaries included Bob Sahlen, secretary of the class of 1961; Gordon Stonington, secretary of the class of 1961; John Ragsdale, secretary of the class of 1962.

Presents
'The Man Who Didn't Like Money'

Mr. James explored a novel theme in his one act play, The Man Who Didn't Like Money: What would happen if a quiz show contestant didn't want his prize? Exploring the possibilities arising from this situation provided plenty of excitement, laughter and confusion.

Mr. James directed the play, and Tom Simrock designed the sets.

or 'The Razor of Destiny'

One of the major objectives of the melodrama as an artistic form is the creation of a confusing set of circumstances which are clarified by the resolution of the play. Jamie Ross, CA's dramatic prodigy and author of the Barber Pole, has definitely demonstrated his ability to create a confusing set of circumstances. As a matter of fact, the circumstances are so confusing that Jamie can't remember how they operate.

It seems that Clarence Faulkenberger is a wealthy pencil manufacturer who has lost his memory, and Thackery Steinguzzle is a former presidential advisor who has been fired because of inability to tread water and is now the town drunk. Clarence has a daughter, Rosebreath, (real beautiful) whom he has promised to Leslie Quagmire (the villain) in marriage. Thackery has a daughter, Caliban, (real ugly) whom he has promised to Siegfried Goodfellow (the hero) in marriage. But actually the daughters have been switched at the hospital so that Rosebreath is really Thackery's daughter and engaged to Seigfried and Caliban is really Clarence's daughter and engaged to Quagmire. Or is it Caliban who is the daughter of Leslie who is engaged to Thackery? I give up. If you want to figure out this mess, get a script.

The Upper School

'Arsenic & Old Lace'

A spirited rivalry in murder was the theme of this year's upper school play as the evil Brewster nephew, Jonathan, tries to outdo his kindly old aunts at the intriguing game of homicide.

The aunts and Jonathan have each run up a score of 12 victims. Jonathan hopes to break the deadlock by doing away with the other nephew Mortimer, a successful young drama critic who is living with the aunts and their brother Teddy, who thinks he is Theodore Roosevelt.

Lower School Play

'Hansel and Gretel'

On this page the second grade performs the sandman dance, the witch prepares the oven for Hansel and Gretel, and the entire cast assembles for the dance and choral finale.

The Lower School

'Hansel and Gretel'

A few weeks before Christmas the Lower School prepared a simplified operatic version of Hansel and Gretel as their traditional Christmas program.

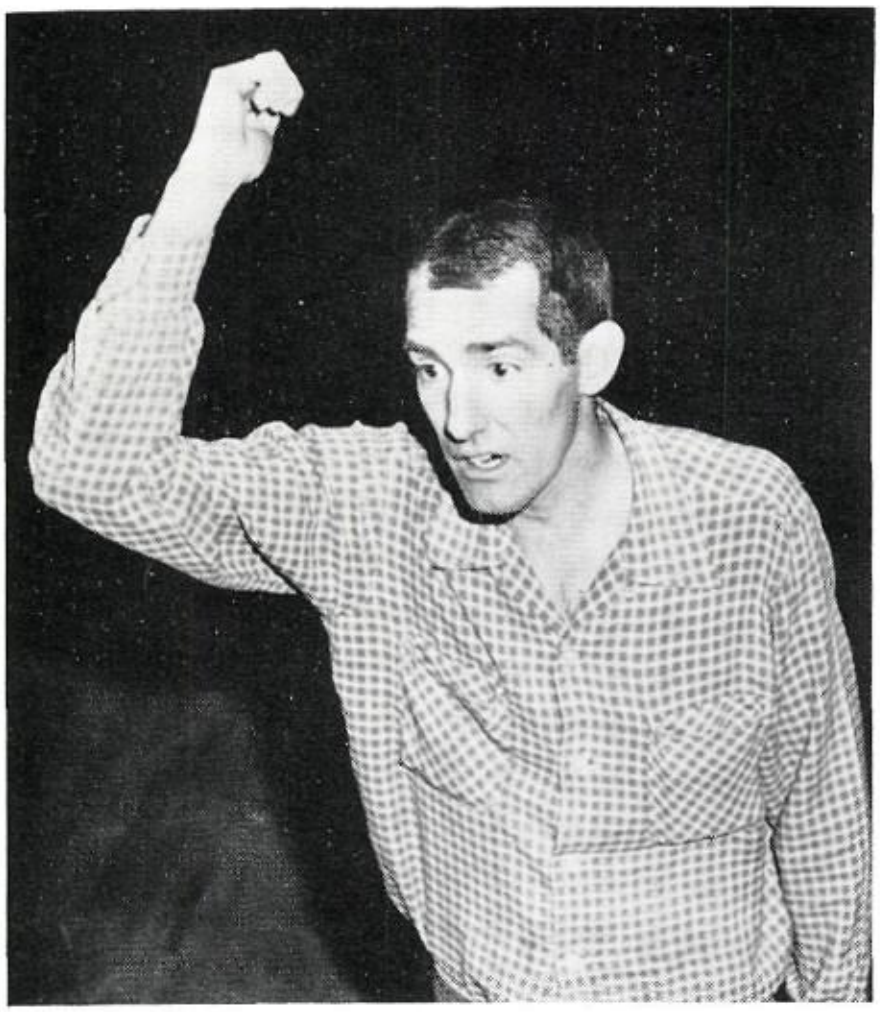
The first graders danced and acted the role of gingerbread men and second graders took the parts of sandmen.

Some of the more difficult singing was done by the sixth grade under the direction of Mr. Ruby. The sixth graders also designed and constructed the sets.

Bryan Ashbaugh (4th grade) played the witch; States Lawrence and Peter Ehrlich (3rd grade) played Hansel and Gretel. Other speaking parts were taken by the third grade.

The entire production was suggested and directed by Mrs. Godoy, 3rd grade instructor.

Drama Director



Willard James

It's about time, but we finally did it. After several years of directing topnotch drama, writing original plays, supervising construction of sets, getting lights (etc), and making polished performers from raw talent, Will James finally gets a couple of lines of credit.

This year Mr. James directed a full three act play Arsenic and Old Lace; directed Jamie Ross's masterpiece, The Razor of Destiny, and wrote and directed his own one act play, The Man Who Didn't Like Money.

Mr. James you're great. How you do it we don't know, but we feel really lucky to be able to enjoy the work of a talented man each year.

Through the dedicated effort of these men, the athletes who participate in football are co-ordinated into the disciplined, well-trained teams that make football such a success at CA.

With characteristic drive and power the Big Red team swept six of their competitors from the 100 yard field of combat. Only three opponents were capable of reversing that trend: Lutheran, DCD, and FVS.

FVS is probably still paying homage to that strange pagan god of fortune who enabled them to win by the meager score of 7 - 6.

Readers please note that our energetic forty man squad scored a total of 197 points to better than double the 86 points scored by our opposition.

For the second successive year, the CA Junior High squad, under the brilliant direction of Coach Kimmel, brought home the Front Range League Trophy. Climaxing a marvelous year's performance by both the varsity and the Junior High A teams was the outstanding job completed by the Junior High B squad. While duplicating the A squad's feat of scoring 5 points for each point scored by an opponent, this team rolled up an impressive four win - no loss record. Another fine job of coaching for John Hewey.

Varsity Soccer Team Has Rough Season

At this point it appears that the varsity soccer has considerable room for improvement, although it must be said that league competition is challenging. Next year the entire first team will return with the exception of only two players. Better luck next time men.

Allen Montoya was named outstanding player of the year and Gary Dwyer elected captain of the team. Students earning letters in this sport were E. Douglas, G. Dwyer, P. Hamilton, R. McGee, A. Montoya, G. Moore, T. Ragsdale, P. Rinaldo, R. Raso and T. Yagizatle.

Lower School Soccer
Colorado State Champions

This was the year for the lower school soccer team. Head coach Dunkeld and assistant coach Blagden entered the team in the Denver Metropolitan Soccer Association, which is the official regulating body for soccer in the State of Colorado. The association included approximately 18 teams divided into northern and southern divisions. Much to the astonishment and joy of the academy, the CA squad won the southern division championship.

CA entered the city championship playing the winners of the northern division, the Hazeltine Broncos, and in the meet played on a snow-packed field defeated the Broncos fairly easily by a score of 2-0 emerging champions of the City of Denver and thereby the State of Colorado.

In addition to the excellent coaching of Mr. Dunkeld and Mr. Blagden special mention should be made of the all around assistance of Mr. J. Gould, former member of the United States Military Academy at West Point soccer team.

Dartmouth Cup Won For Third Time

The CA ski team once again rose to a position of supremacy in the skiiing ranks finishing the season with an impressive record of four wins, one second and a seventh. In addition it placed two members of the team, Dave Stonington and Bill Gerber, on the Junior National Ski Team.

Major factors in the success of this team were coach Hewey's discovery of an excellent conditioning and training area in nearby Tiny Town, and his successful effort to make skiing a full fledged varsity sport.

The skiers assembled for the first time at the Aspen Jr. Alpine race, minus four key racers, and were able to manage only a disappointing seventh place. This was an inauspicious beginning but it was followed later in the week by a fine victory in the quadrangular Rocky Mountain School meet. This was the first time that (CRMS) had lost its own meet.

Second Straight Win of Mile High Trophy

At the FVS meet the team again ran into a bit of difficulty due to the absence of several first team skiers due to the Hatlokai races. Although hampered by falls and the missing teammates, CA finished in second place only 3/10 of a point behind the winning team. The following week produced the sweet smell of success as Dave Stonington led the team to victory at the DCD Slalom in Loveland.

Winding up the season for the team were the Mile High and Dartmouth Cup races in which all the schools in the Denver area participated. The Mustangs narrowly managed the win in the Mile High to make this their second consecutive win in that event. The great and joyous climax to the season's activity occurred in the Dartmouth Cup with a spectacular CA victory resulting in CA's unprecedented third consecutive capture of the Dartmouth Trophy.

CA's Ball Club Improving

In its second season of existence, the CA ball club began to display signs of becoming a more seasoned team.

Under Coach Rode's direction, the team produced some excellent pitching and hitting. Here's looking forward to a big season in '63.

Short Season

In spite of the amount of time spent diligently practicing, and with due regard to the great quantity of tennis talent, the varsity tennis team played a rather short season. Five games had been scheduled, but all but one were cancelled for various reasons.

In the only match played, CA lost to FVS by a score of 3 - 5.

(Plays no matches)

With uncommon ease the CA Junior High team managed to achieve a completely unblemished record consisting of no losses, no ties, and no wins. This remarkable record was maintained through four cancelled matches and is a real tribute to the team's determination in the face of steadily diminishing opposition.

Varsity Track

'62 Thinclads
Weak Quantity; Strong Quality

In the spring so many sports are offered that individual coaches find it difficult to fill their rosters with an adequate number of athletes. This problem was especially noticeable on the track team which competes for athletes with tennis, baseball and weight lifting. Coach Kimmel gathered a track nucleus of only thirteen students willing to undergo the ordeal imposed by a conditioning sport like track.

Despite the lack of numbers, spirit on the team remained very high, and our track team showed well in competition. A new school record for the one-mile relay was established by this team. The record in meet competition was fairly good and included a first-place in one meet, second-place in three meets, third-place in three meets, fourth-place in the St. Mary's Invitational and sixth-place in the State Private School Meet.

Men earning letters in track this year included R. Butterly, B. Carlson, S. Nye, G. Smith, J. Cook, R. Emerson, J. Ritter, J. Stillman. Other track regulars were G. Dwyer, J. Humphreys, J. Kirkpatrick, M. Wells, R. Wright. Managers were E. Able, F. Milburn and E. Webber.

ACTIVITIES

Awards Assembly

Several students received citations of outstanding merit at the 62. awards assembly. Phipps Rinaldo was presented the Yale Award as the outstanding member of the Junior Class. First Citizen Awards were presented to the following students: Mike Nichols, John Humphreys, Richard Shepard, Jeff Welborn, Bud Davis, John Sullivan, Jamie Ross. Peter Hildt was given a special leadership award and Dwight Filley was recognized for outstanding service to the theatre. Dave Bebell was the only student from the middle school to attain the Dean's List, although four upper school students - Jeff Welborn, Robert McGee, Jamie Ross and Teddy Ragsdale - attained this unique academic distinction.

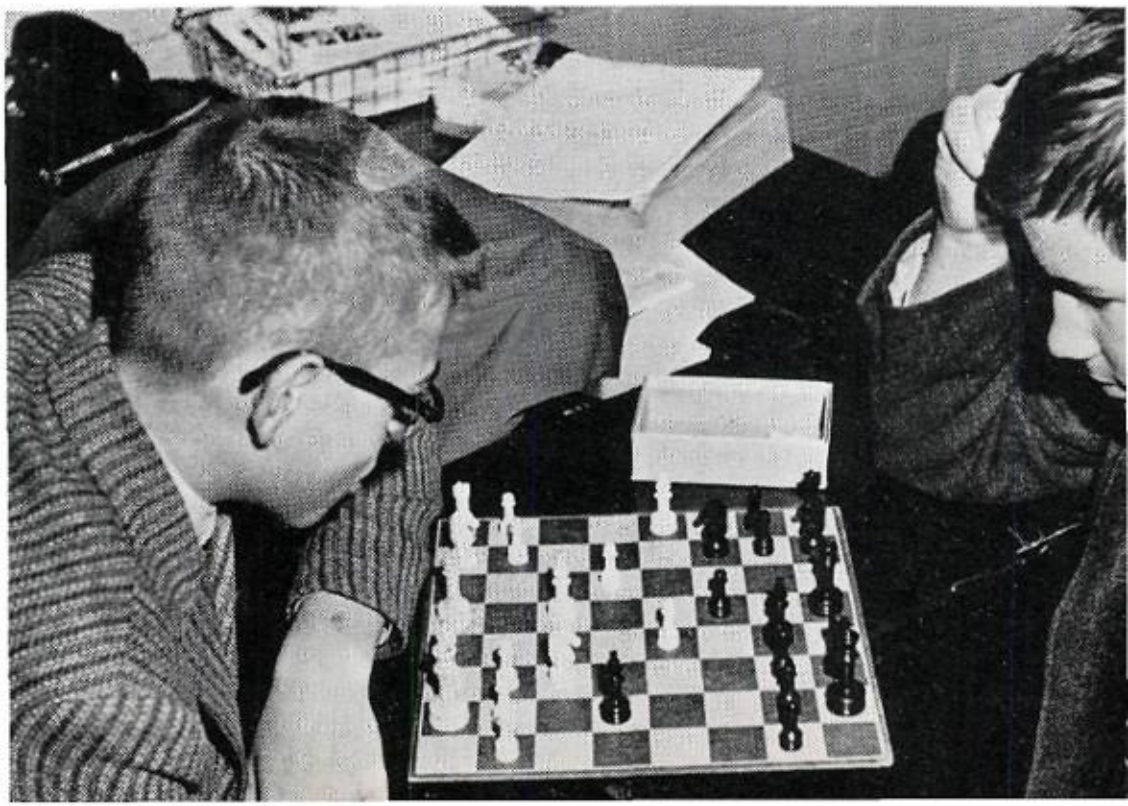
Alumni Meet With Upper School Discuss College

On the final day of classes before the Christmas vacation, ten members of the class of 1961 returned to CA to share their college experiences with the senior class and undergraduates. One observation universally shared by the returning alumni was that it is very difficult for a high school graduate to learn to budget his own study time and recreation time in college. Each member of the class of 1961 felt that the task of learning to discipline oneself is the most difficult problem besetting the incoming college freshman.

Chess Club

Much to the amazement of its sponsor Mr. McElroy, the chess team began its season with a tidy 3-2 victory over Randell. Confidence strengthened by this win, the team challenged Graland and received a surprising 4-2 defeat for its effort.

Team ranking as determined by a tournament in the middle school established the following top players: David Bebell (first player), David Knowles (second player), Davy Davis (third player), Joe Perry and Martin Harrington (fourth players).



Student Council

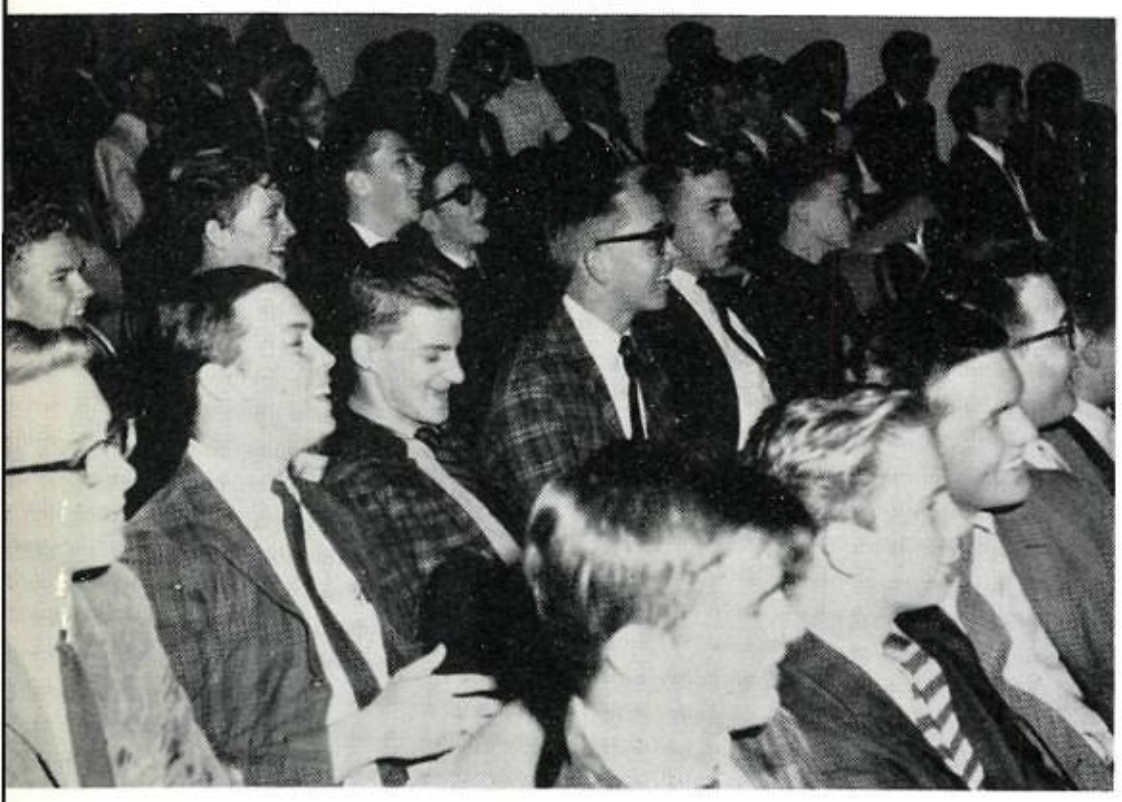
CA's practitioners of representative government managed to survive another school season without suffering the rigors of riot, revolution or total anarchy. As a matter of fact, they even were successful in instituting two new plans which met with wide student approval. For the first time students were asked to contribute dues to the student council, and these dues were used to sponsor two children through the Foster Parents Plan.

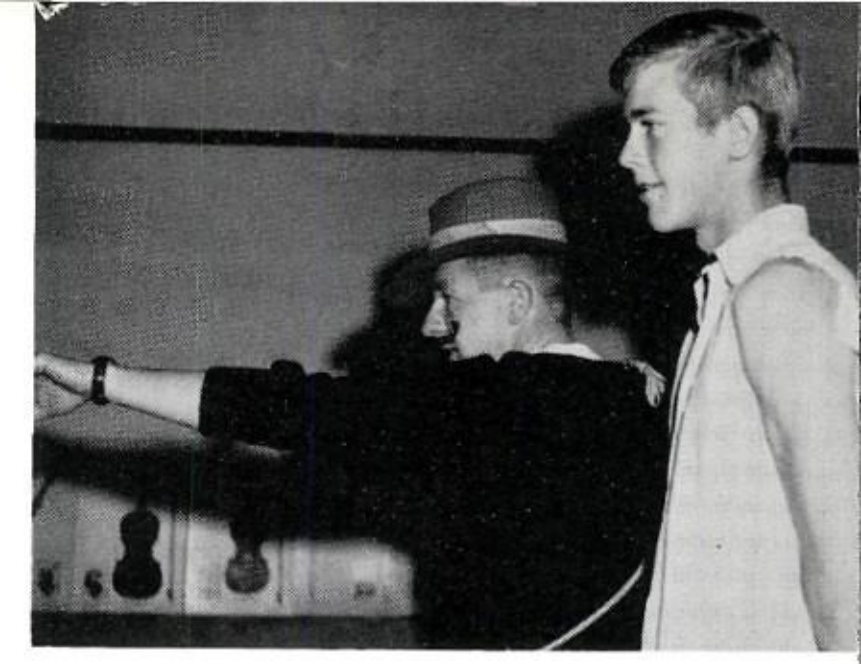
Following Christmas vacation, the student council presented to the student body a plan to sponsor two children through the Foster Parents Plan. The idea was greeted with virtually unanimous approval by the students. Enough money was collected to support a child in Hong Kong and another child in the Philippines for a period of one year. The plan will be submitted for reapproval in the coming term.

The council also attended a meeting of the ACIS where Cecil Henshaw of the American Friends Society spoke on the merits of unilateral disarmament. Several of CA's contingent offered Mr. Henshaw some interesting questions concerning the value of his proposals following the talk.

The student council was sponsored by Mr. Rode, upper school advisor, and was presided over by David Stonington. Members included: Jim Matson, Sam Holden, Dick Butterly, Rick Shepard, Jamie Ross and Tolga Yagizatle, who acted as representative of the American Field Service.

Slave Day





The annual senior class slave day was a roaring, howling success this year. Over $300.00 was bid for the services of the senior class, Jim Nance taking honors when he commanded the highest price of the day, $27.00. Teachers got into the act when Mr. Rode volunteered his services as a slave and Mr. Kimmel, who had made the mistake of appearing in sweatshirt and cut-offs, was captured by a determined group of husky seniors and sold as an involuntary slave.

Glee Club

Glee Club director Hank Ruby is a resourceful soul. By surreptitious methods that the FBI could study with profit, Hank has managed to sneak students out of class and into his Glee Club rehearsals. Only occasionally is he able to rehearse the entire group at one time, and the locations of the rehearsals vary like the phases of the moon, but somehow Hank gets the job done. As a matter of fact, we've discovered at the assemblies where we've heard them that the Glee Club is not only singing in unison (for the most part) these days but actually sounds quite good.

The Combo

If you haven't got the word Man, there's been some really immense innovations in the form of recent graduations. That's cause CA's got the swingingest combo smashing records on the academic circuit. Like Pomp and Circumstance is out whilst Movin and Groovin is in; and gee Dad, you know that's really relaxed.
